

Mandy has been a working full time professional AND adjunct professor for almost 10 years. She has taught the senior capstone courses for over 5 years. She brings her creative professional perspective to the classroom, challenging students to dig deeper, and solve design problems in more profound ways. Her students flourish under her guidance as they are prepared and challenged to take on the real world after graduation. While a newer member to the IIDA organization, her high quality professional work has been the source of numerous IIDA project award recognitions over the years from local to national awards. Mandy is the sort of educator that we want to be a part of this organization, bringing our values and mission to her students.
